Objective

Diarrhoea kills over 1.1 million children annually in developing countries. Lifebuoy soap believes this tragedy can be prevented. The brand wanted to run an awareness campaign on the importance of handwashing with soap at the Maha Kumbh Mela, India – the largest religious festival on the planet.

Insight

The roti, or Indian bread, is a staple item served with every Indian meal. We decided to use this as our medium.

Idea & Execution

We created a heat stamp to print our edible message directly on a roti.

‘Did you wash your hands with Lifebuoy?’

And over 30 days, 100 promoters stood in 100 kitchens at the festival, stamping over 2.5 million fresh rotis.

Results

On a total investment of $36,000, over 5 million people were directly impacted.

That’s a cost per contact of less than 1 cent!

Incremental sales were $40 for every $1 invested

"The Puppy Rescue - A Lifebuoy Story"

A child playing in the park with a puppy
Happy, playful music

- [Child's voiceover, excited] "Meet Bruno, my best friend. He's cute, cuddly... and loves jumping in mud!"
- [Cut to Bruno rolling in mud; child laughing while petting Bruno]

[Scene 2: Puppy runs into trouble]

- "But one day, Bruno found trouble."
- [Puppy gets tangled in a bush, child rushes to rescue it]
- [Dramatic music plays as the child untangles the puppy, gets dirty hands]

"The Puppy Rescue - A Lifebuoy Story"

[Scene 3: Mom intervenes]

- [Mom appears, holding Lifebuoy soap]
- "Saving Bruno was easy, but keeping me safe? That's mom's job!"
- [Child washing hands with Lifebuoy, bubbly soap everywhere, puppy licking the soap bubbles]

[Final Scene: Message]

- [Child smiling at the camera, hugging Bruno]
- Voiceover: "Love your pets, protect yourself. Lifebuoy – because life is in your hands!"
- Text on screen: #StayProtected #LifebuoyLove

"Lifebuoy: A History of Saving Lives"

[Opening Scene: Dramatic, with haunting music and black-and-white footage of Bombay chawls in the early 1900s]

- Voiceover: “In the crowded chawls of Bombay, deadly diseases once claimed thousands of lives. Germs thrived in tight spaces with poor sanitation.”
- [Images of children coughing, hospital beds, and concerned doctors]

[Scene 2: Enter Lifebuoy]

- Voiceover: “In 1894, Lifebuoy was created as a lifesaving tool to fight these diseases. Its revolutionary formula didn’t just clean hands—it saved lives.”
- [Footage of vintage Lifebuoy ads and soap bars]

[Scene 3: Scary Facts]

- “Even today, germs are everywhere. From the doorknob you touched this morning to your phone screen—your hands carry thousands of bacteria.”
- [Cut to close-up of germs under a microscope]
- Voiceover: “Did you know improper handwashing contributes to diseases that kill millions every year?”

"Lifebuoy: A History of Saving Lives"

[Scene 4: Lifebuoy Today]

- [Bright, modern visuals of families using Lifebuoy soap]
- Voiceover: "With Lifebuoy, you're not just washing your hands. You're protecting your family, your history, and your future."

[Final Message: Hopeful Music]

- Voiceover: "One habit. Millions of lives. Lifebuoy – protecting hands since 1894."

ON THE BLOG

In the heart of rural India, where access to healthcare remains a challenge, Lifebuoy stands as a beacon of hope. Since 1894, our simple yet powerful solution has been transforming communities through the promotion of basic hygiene practices.

From Prevention to Protection: Lifebuoy's Fight Against Disease

Studies show that regular handwashing with Lifebuoy reduces diarrheal diseases by 25% and respiratory infections by 15%. Our antibacterial formula, trusted by generations, effectively eliminates 99.9% of harmful bacteria while being gentle enough for daily use.

Our impact extends beyond individual health. In partnership with local healthcare workers, Lifebuoy's education programs have reached over 1 billion people globally. In villages where our programs operate, school attendance has increased by 40% due to reduced illness rates.

Most recently, during the COVID-19 pandemic, Lifebuoy's initiatives helped protect millions of families. Our emergency response programs provided essential hygiene products to vulnerable communities, while our digital education campaigns reached remote areas with crucial health information.

The numbers tell our story: 70% reduction in waterborne illnesses in program villages, 2 million children taught proper handwashing techniques annually, and countless lives improved through simple, effective hygiene practices.
